

News. It's not just for corporations anymore.

INDYMEDIA NEWSREAL, a monthly television series, brings progressive grassroots organizing to a national television audience. Each program covers actions taken in local communities, by so-called ordinary people, to address critical issues like air and water pollution, reproductive rights, homelessness, for-profit prisons, sweatshops, racism, police brutality, indigenous struggles, and more. But don't just watch, get involved! You're also encouraged to become an INDYMEDIA producer, and/or host an INDYMEDIA NewsReal screening in your home town.

INDYMEDIA's goals are to embolden the global movement for social, environmental, and economic justice, strengthen non-corporate communication networks, and to encourage authentic participatory democracy, one community at a time.

Host a screening: We'll send you a VHS tape, you just have to organize a screening in a coffee shop, theater, or even a friend's garage. Invite activists to speak about their work, create a space where people can get together, meet new folks, and learn about other struggles going on around the country. For posters, handbills, along with a step by step guide for organizing a fun event go to www.satellite.indymedia.org

Produce a segment: Indymedia NewsReal is a series dedicated to giving front-line progressive activists their own television show. You can help by covering actions in your home town. Indymedia is looking for current reports of people taking action to achieve progressive social, environmental and economic justice. Edited segments should be 5 minutes in length. For more information on how to get your segment onto Indymedia, contact the program team by sending e-mail to: newsreal@indymedia.org Indymedia NewsReal is an open and inclusive project, and wouldn't happen without the support and hard work of numerous volunteer media activists. The best way to get involved is to jump right into action. NewsReal is aired several times each month on FreeSpeech TV - Dish Network Satellite channel 9415 - and Community Access channels across the US.

www.satellite.indymedia.org

News. It's not just for corporations anymore.

INDYMEDIA NEWSREAL, a monthly television series, brings progressive grassroots organizing to a national television audience. Each program covers actions taken in local communities, by so-called ordinary people, to address critical issues like air and water pollution, reproductive rights, homelessness, for-profit prisons, sweatshops, racism, police brutality, indigenous struggles, and more. But don't just watch, get involved! You're also encouraged to become an INDYMEDIA producer, and/or host an INDYMEDIA NewsReal screening in your home town.

INDYMEDIA's goals are to embolden the global movement for social, environmental, and economic justice, strengthen non-corporate communication networks, and to encourage authentic participatory democracy, one community at a time.

Host a screening: We'll send you a VHS tape, you just have to organize a screening in a coffee shop, theater, or even a friend's garage. Invite activists to speak about their work, create a space where people can get together, meet new folks, and learn about other struggles going on around the country. For posters, handbills, along with a step by step guide for organizing a fun event go to www.satellite.indymedia.org

Produce a segment: Indymedia NewsReal is a series dedicated to giving front-line progressive activists their own television show. You can help by covering actions in your home town. Indymedia is looking for current reports of people taking action to achieve progressive social, environmental and economic justice. Edited segments should be 5 minutes in length. For more information on how to get your segment onto Indymedia, contact the program team by sending e-mail to: newsreal@indymedia.org Indymedia NewsReal is an open and inclusive project, and wouldn't happen without the support and hard work of numerous volunteer media activists. The best way to get involved is to jump right into action. NewsReal is aired several times each month on FreeSpeech TV - Dish Network Satellite channel 9415 - and Community Access channels across the US.

www.satellite.indymedia.org